THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Janesville, Wis., June 17.—Judge Sherman M. Smalley will retain his seat as judge of the fifth judicial circuit, as a result of the jury's decision Thursday night, clearing him of charges of violation of the corrupt practices act.

The jury decided Judge Smalley did not violate or authorize the circulation of alleged libelous campaign leaflets objected to by Judge Lloyd H. Zimmerman, Richard C. Carter, whom Smalley defeated in the April election. The case was the first brought in Wisconsin in the 10 years in which the act has been in effect. The jury was out for four hours.

It is possible the state may appeal to the state supreme court. J. P. Clifford, Green Bay, special state prosecutor, went to Madison Friday to confer with Attorney General Morgan, Judge Rold, Wausau, who presided, told the attorneys they had one week in which to file any motion and two weeks in which to submit briefs on questions they wish to argue. ### "Not Hard Job," Says Girl in Charge of Village

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE. New York.—Running a village is not extremely hard work, says Miss Florence Bahman, clerk of Seaciff, L. I. By the resignation of the village president and trustees, Miss Bahman has automatically become the governing head of Seaciff, whose population numbers 2,000. She says:

"It isn't hard work to run Seaciff, because it really isn't any work. I came into this seemingly important position simply because the president, Dickie, disagreed with the two trustees, Frederick Judd and Charles R. Wanser, on the matter of road construction. The president wanted the $10,000 appropriation to be given away in contracts for the roads, while the trustees wanted the village to do its own construction work. They wouldn't agree, and when the village found that at loggerheads, a meeting of the citizens was called for May 16. 'Throughout all this I took no active part in the discussion, for although I am appointed, and act simply as a sort of secretary.'"

"On May 16 the taxpayers saw that no agreement could be reached on the subject of the roads, and some one suggested that the officers resign. Dickie resigned immediately, but the trustees waited until the village business was executed. Then they got out."

SENATORS SIZZLE IN COATS; DIGNITY MUST BE UPHELD

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Madison.—Senators determined Friday that they would rather be dignified than comfortable, and turned down a motion that rules be suspended to enable them to enjoy shirt sleeve privileges.

Senator Charles Mulberger started trouble when he came into the senate displaying a silk shirt. President pro tem Timothy Burke ordered the senator to replace his coat, explaining the upper house, in maintaining dignity with the thermometer at 90, was merely following precedent as established by the English parliament at the time of John III.

A move to suspend the rules produced a roll call, with only Senators Mulberger and Conant on the side of comfort. "How about the newspaper guys, don't they have to put on their top coats, too?" Senator Conant demanded.

President Burke declared it was their privilege to be undignified.

CITY SWELTERS IN 96 DEGREE HEAT

Believed to be Hottest June 17 Known—Milwaukee Reports 93 Degrees.

7 a. m. .... 85 degrees

After the most torrid night so far this summer without a break in the heat, Friday morning's thermometer, a 96-degree mercury at noon is believed to set Friday down as the hottest June day in Milwaukee's history. The quicksilver tottered at the 85 mark. It rose rapidly for 11 degrees, while the sweltering inhabitants took to the shade. A cooling breeze, however, fell in and the sun's heat gave a limp rest to man and beast alike.

Full summer attire is the order Friday with misses decking the streets in light blue and other flimsy stuff refreshing, while the male of the species worked in his shirt sleeves or less if he was fortunate enough to have a shirt. The bureau of the city's parks, however, had been prepared to have the day grow old and hot.

Man Tries to Rescue Girl, Both Perish

Richard Ward, 25, Beloit, and Miss Ruth Neils, 22, school teacher of Jefferson were drowned in Rock river near Beloit at 5 p. m. Thursday when the canoe in which they were riding capsized, throwing them and Francis Carr, Beloit, and Miss Elsie Baker into the water. Ward died in a heroic attempt to save Miss Neils, who could not swim.

It was the tragic culmination of a day of pleasure planned by the two youths, next door neighbors and chums, in company with the two girls they saw early in the afternoon for a trip up the river to Jefferson's beach. The canoe was a large one which the men had borrowed for a week. At the beach all went in bathing and Ward attempted to teach Miss Neils how to swim. They started for home a little before 5 o'clock.

Miss Baker was seated in the front of the canoe and Ward in the back seat with Miss Neils and young Carr seated in the bottom in the center. They were about opposite the Beloit country club and on the other side of the river and but 25 feet from shore when the canoe capsized, throwing all of them into the water.

Ward followed by Carr, told by young Carr who stated to a Gazette reporter Thursday the story of the tragic occurrence.

"We were not excited because we thought there was little danger of being so close to the shore," Mr. Carr stated. "We all grabbed hold of the canoe and tried to keep it from attempting to right it, which seemed almost impossible. Miss Neils lost her hold on the boat and Ward attempted to save her."

HOUSE RETURNS HOME BREW TO GOVERNOR'S BILL

MEASURE THEN ENGROSSED AND PASSED UN- DER SUSPENSION

VOTE IS 47 TO 40

Wet Members Vote Solidly for Blaine Provisions; Drys All Opposed.

BULLETIN. Madison.—The Blaine dry enforcement bill, with the Schaeffer amendment, was passed by a special order of business on next Tuesday's calendar by the senate Friday, on request of Senator Severson. It is held certain the senate will not recede from its original position against home brew.

A conference committee, then, will be appointed by the senate committee on amendments, and the speaker of the assembly, both dry, to agree on a measure to be reported back to the legislature. It is believed this proposal will have the Olson amendment attached, prohibiting manufacture of home brew.

Madison.—Home brew was restored to the Blaine prohibition enforcement bill by the assembly Thursday night, on a vote of 47 to 40. The lower house refused to reject the Schaeffer amendment, placing the bill in the form it came from the governor.

Engrossment was given by acclamation as soon as the home brew section was added, and the measure then passed under suspension of rules 1 to 35, with all so-called wet members of the lower house voting for the existing law, and all drys opposing.

Motion of assemblyman Farkowski to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, will result, in keeping it away from the senate Friday, when a full membership is present, unless the lower house suspends rules and gets the measure to the senate.

Senator Severson, member who introduced the proposal in the upper house, said that if taken up Friday in the senate it would be killed, leaving enforcement of prohibition by the state to be carried out through the Olson amendment.

Assemblyman Schaeffer, author of the assembly home brew amendment, and Assemblyman Dahl up-hold the Olson amendment, prohibiting state sanction of liquor manufacture in the home.

Contention was made by both speakers that the governor's bill was aimed directly at the wet brewers rather than at the ordinary citizen who might want to manufacture liquor in the home for home consumption.

"Wisconsin is classed as a wet state, and prohibition enforcement to be effective must be applied gradually," Assemblyman Dahl said. "To clamp on a stringent dry law at this time would only cause serious dissatisfaction, which could be avoided by a gradual application."

Assemblyman Matheson, author of the enforcement measure, urged the governor, attacked the bill as wet and less effective than the present law, and urged acceptance of the proposal as it came from the senate with the Olson amendment prohibiting manufacture of moonshine in the home.

"I am attached by a good purpose of some people to let the good housewife have a pint of the harmless mullerry wine they speak of," Assemblyman Matheson said, "but where are you to draw the line between the harmless mullerry wine and the moonshiner's still? It is simply a question of home brew and moonshine."

The Blaine bill is an amending step backward. It is not as effective an enforcement measure as the present Mulberger law and, if not passed as amended, should be killed."

DIVER DROWNS WHEN HELMET IS LOOSE

Sault Ste. Marie.—Damon S. Godfrey of this city, a diver, was drowned Friday, 25 feet under the surface, when his helmet became loosened, water seeped in, and his suit gradually filled. News Notes From Movieland
BY DAISY DEAN

This story ought to be headed "Listen, Girls, We've Met 'The Perfect Lover'—or something like that, but what should I do to head it? It is too long. Follows, We've Met Eugene O'Brien and He's a Regular Guy." He came into his sitting room to meet us dressed immaculately in a black double-breasted suit with black tie (the artist told us that) and after introductions all the way around he sat down and talked to us about all kinds of things until he had to be reminded that we wanted to know something about him.

It was hard work getting any bits of personal things out of this young man, for he appeared to be so sure of himself without the aid of the first personal pronoun. Here are a few of the discoveries we made despite his reticence.

He is splendid looking. Perhaps you have known that all along, but we have actually seen his wavy hair and blue eyes.

He loves horses and dogs and his only complaint is his charming apartment is his dog, and his horse which he rides daily is "just around the corner."

He loves a perfectly kept home and will never marry a girl who spills powder and rouge about her dressing table. (Flappers adoring Eugene please note.)

Mr. O'Brien is a bit of old Ireland and his sense of humor is delightful. He was born in Colorado, but is the first generation to live in this country. He has made pictures on the coast, but prefers New York to any other place on earth.

He feels grateful to pictures, but prefers the stage and wants to return to it soon.

ENGLAND WANTS HER CHARLIE
England tried without success recently to regain her native son, Charles Chaplin. But, although Chaplin was offered a huge sum to return home and be forgiven, he will remain in the United States.

The offer made Chaplin was staggering in size. He was offered $25,000 a week, which is at the rate of more than a million a year, for his signature to a theatrical contract for twelve months.

He came back with the following brief but to the point answer: "Your proposition overwhelms me. Sorry I cannot accept it."

Not a detail has been left out of the plans for the new high school building. The grounds are between South Main street and the river, starting at Oakland avenue and going to Racine street. It is the present plan to buy up more land for an addition to the building. The school building will be a separate building with the boiler room, the auditorium, the gymnasium, the swimming pool, the kitchen and the athletic field.

250 AT BIG FARM MEET IN CLINTON

Milk Producers Back Marketing Company—Farm Bureau Elects Officers.

Milk producers in the Clinton district decided they need an organized marketing company and will attack, providing the two price policy is not made effective for the Southern Wisconsin district. More than 250 attended the joint Farm Bureau and milk producers' meeting in Clinton Thursday night.

Frank Holt, Kenosha, in the main address urged the farmers to remain in the association, co-operate in strengthening out the financial obligations of the company and obtain a new start.

The marketing company fails, you dairy men will be worse off than before," warned Holt. "If all the farmers stick and allow a 50 per cent spray on the milk, the marketing company will pay off its debts and have a working surplus. When milk and milk products are sold, the company has to wait from 60 to 90 days for payment. The delay in payment is the cause of the trouble."

Offer skim Milk Free. Some of the farmers present proposed an organization of a direct distributing company. It was pointed out that while the marketing company has been attacked as a trust, the Chicago food commission have been offered skim milk much of which now goes to waste, if they would pay freight charges.

H. O. Nates, was re-elected chairman of the Farm Bureau, with L. M. Mullooly and E. D. Smith, as vice-presidents. The school district representatives named were, L. M. Mullooly, also the Clinton secretary, Peter Michelson, for Clinton and Bradford, D. D. Wilkoy, Jay Dusen, L. T. Larson, John Kaough, P. J. Peterson, G. L. Peterson, R. B. Snyder, C. J. Furett and Walter Kemmerer.

It was taken to buy a carload of threatening coal to be distributed among the farmers at cost.

Evansville Meeting. There will be a joint meeting of the Evansville Milk Producers and the Evansville Milk Producers' association in the Woodman hall, Evansville, on June 21, to consider action on what the farmers are to do over the increasing spread and two price policy recently established by the Chicago marketing company. While the two price system has not yet been made effective in Southern Wisconsin, dairy interests in the country are solidly opposed to such a system of paying less for milk in the so-called condenser district.

Officers will be elected at the Evansville meeting. The Chicago marketing company is at the crisis of its existence, states Leo Campbell, chairman of the United Township Farm Bureau. "We want to do something to save the support of every member at this time. We want to name officers who are willing to carry on the organization work in the Evansville district."

Jack Speeds Up to Meet Cunning of Carpentier

Atlantic City, N. J.—With Jack Dempsey back in his training grid Friday development of the champion's speed to match that of the crafty Carpentier is the chief aim of his handlers.

Dempsey will be called upon to do more boxing with smaller and lighter sparring partners as he advances in the final two weeks of training. He will be gradually cut down in camp will be gradually cut down. Dempsey started in on the program to increase his speed Thursday when he resumed boxing for the first time since his left eye was slipped open ten days ago. He boxed two rounds each with "Babe" Herman, a shifty hard hitting featherweight and Irish Patsy Oline, a lightweight. Both made Dempsey box with the speed of a lightweight. The champion who heretofore has boxed with no head protection whatever, wore a headgear Thursday. This was to protect the healing wound over his eye.

May Be Under 100 Although Dempsey plans to enter the ring July 5, weighing about 190 pounds, he may be lighter than this, manager Kearns said, if the weather becomes hot in the days preceding the match.

The champion has eliminated rope skipping from his training program. Experts contend that there is no move in rope skipping that is employed in fighting and that shadow boxing is the best exercise because it brings leg motions as well as the arms into play.

Feeds Penitence Dempsey, it is known, fed two hungry strangers at his camp Thursday.

See Unusual Advance in U.S. Islands

An interesting photograph of the Woods-Forbes mission in the Philippine islands—one of the first published in Wisconsin—was sent to the Janesville Gazette by George L. McGee, former member of the editorial staff of the "Danzon Tribune" in Manila. The photograph shows the officials who are making a tour of the island provinces for a report to President Harding. The report is to be based on the logic of granting independence to the Philippine islands.

Much Progress Made Results of the investigation thus far indicate that the Pacific islands have made extensive progress under protection and administration of the United States government. Schools and colleges have grown and English is the common language among the younger people.

Good roads have been built in the settled provinces, crops are good and the islands will not experience any food shortage.

The land title situation is bad and taxes have doubled and tripled recently. In some parts the natives refuse to support their legislators.

The health situation, according to news reports, is poor, the mortality rate being high.

Trouble has been experienced in the provincial districts, for the reason native orators have indicated the residents with the idea of independence. The educated natives still seek and demand protection of the United States against any possible aggression by Japan.

George L. McGee left Janesville after graduating from the high school here and later from Beloit college, to accept a position on the Manila Bulletin, an English newspaper in the Philippine capital city. He left the

BIG IMPROVEMENTS
AT LOCAL GARAGEStrimble to Have One of Biggest Garages in Wisconsin.

Extensive alterations are being made at the garage of J. A. Strimble, East Milwaukee street, to increase the floor capacity of the present building. The building which for many years was used as the famous Calumet stables is to be rebuilt, improved with a new front for a service and sales station.

The new extension it is claimed will make the Strimble garage one of the largest in Wisconsin, outside of Milwaukee. The company is also considering extensions into other cities in Southern Wisconsin with branch garages.

The addition will give a new front of 40 feet along Milwaukee street and a depth of 200 feet. The entire building once completed will be 113 feet on Milwaukee and 200 feet deep with a floor space of more than 22,000 feet.

"Business is Good"

More than $5,000 will be spent within the next month on the improvements for the new service station.

"There is no logic to any one saying business is poor at the present," said J. A. Strimble. "Business is just what you make it. I don't care what line of merchandise is offered, automobiles or clothes, there is business when values are offered. We are confident of the automobile business and consequently branching out and growing bigger."

"We expect to have the largest sales room in Southern Wisconsin and the most floor space for a service station. Conditions warrant the expansion for the automobile buying and selling is down to a sane basis. The manufacturer is not making excessive demands or prices on the dealer now."

Auto Ousts Horses.

The final passing of the once famous and widely known Galbraith thoroughbred horse stables to an automobile service and sales station, indicated at the beginning of the end of high bred horses in Wisconsin as a business. The stable has not been in use for a number of years.

The inside frame work has been torn up, a new concrete floor is being poured and entrances made to connect with the other parts of the building.

New York—Greylag, a three-year-old running in the color of the Bannock stable, won the Brooklyn aqueduct $10,000 purse by a length and a half in a drive.

E. H. Whitney's John P. Grier finished the same race ahead of the terminator, owned by W. S. Kilmer.

The time for the mile and a furlong was four-fifths of a second behind the world's record established by Greylag at the Belmont track last week.

THE GAZETTE'S PLATFORM

Build a Community Center and Convention Hall for the city for athletics, conventions, musical concerts, civic meetings, and have it belong to the whole city. This is also a part of a program to provide music and entertainment for the people the year around. Complete the city plan. Make more small parks and playgrounds and provide at least one large park where the whole people may exercise at will. Carry out plans coming to Janesville or passing through. Erect a permanent memorial for the soldiers of the World War, suitable to the city and preserve the relics and souvenirs of that and all other American wars in a public hall. Finish the paving of Janesville streets and complete the sewer system. Keep the city clean and bright and clean with paint and the streets free from filth. Either build a new hotel or so increase the facilities of the present hotels as to take care of the traveling public and be able to handle conventions. Finish the high school at an early date and finish the children's proper educational facilities.

If you are going away on a vacation arrange to have the Gazette follow you. Notify the Circulation department.

THE HEAVY CASUALTIES AT MADISON

There was a heavy slaughter of tax bills at Madison on Wednesday. The administration tax bills received a stunning and let us hope sufficiently hard blow to knock them out completely when the reconsideration motions are up. One of them, the Severson sur-tax bill, was aimed again at the industry of the state. Another, the Dahl bill, was a shot-gun measure scattering the deadly missiles over a wide area of taxable victims. The Arnold bill was the best of all. What we need in Wisconsin is less taxation at this time. Had the bills proposed been for the relief of any persons or property there might have been a different answer. Real economy in administration is preferable to heavier burdens of taxes no matter where the burden is placed. So far the finance committee has done a good job in cutting the expenses. Let the administration keep within these figures. It is hoped the emergency board will get out of business during the next year.

"Big Tim" Murphy probably is sore because he was not involved in that army harness graft where $25,000,000 was involved.

THE WISCONSIN-MICHIGAN BOUNDARY

Wisconsin has done well to ignore the claim of Michigan to any part of the territory of the state and the threat of the committee named by the Michigan legislature, to appeal to the supreme court may and may not be carried out. The trouble all comes of the inaccuracies of maps made at the time or just before the divisions of the territory of Michigan into the two territories of Wisconsin and Michigan. We had had trouble over the Illinois line and had claimed that the Ordinance of 1787, fixing the boundaries under a map made by one Mitchell, was "forever unalterable." Under that ordinance all Chicago would belong to Wisconsin and all that part of Illinois on an extended line from the foot of the lake to the Mississippi would be ours. In a threat at one time to attack the validity of the present boundary of Wisconsin, Illinois claimed that the surveyor had made a whole shaped piece where a part of the city of Detroit is and that this belonged to Illinois. That too has been recently revived but the same old threat is made by Wisconsin to open up the ancient question and claim all Northern Illinois. These things make interesting reading but come to no more than talk. Michigan has no claim to the Upper Peninsula by geographical reasons. The Upper Peninsula really belongs to Wisconsin when it comes to transportation and neighboring. Ninety per cent of the travel of the Upper Peninsula comes south by way of Wisconsin. There is a movement on foot now to ask for separation as a state or to be joined to Wisconsin. When Michigan was ousted from the territory at the head of Miami Bay, including the city of Toledo in 1835, the Upper Peninsula was given the state as a bit of salvage. That episode nearly caused a war. Michigan and Ohio had the militia out and the two states were on the verge of conflict when the Federal government stepped in and settled the conflict of boundaries.

The trouble of the Upper Peninsula boundary by which Michigan now claims the city of Hurley and much of Iron county comes from the map maker's error. A committee of the United States senate fixed the boundary line using a map published by L. Judson which represented the Montreal and Menominee rivers rising from the Lake Vieux Desert, one flowing to Superior, the other to Michigan lake. In fact it was stated later that it was an 8 days journey from the headwaters of the Menominee to those of the Montreal and Lake Vieux Desert is the headwater of the Wisconsin river and has nothing to do with either of the other streams. Eventually congress accepted a boundary as it is now delineated and has remained for all these years. It will be hard indeed, we are sure, to convince anyone that peaceful possession of property for 73 years does not constitute a good title and that is probably why Governor Blaine refuses to open a bootless dispute.

Anxious Inquirer: Babe Ruth was fined $100 and a day in jail for auto speeding.

OFFICIALS WITH BACKBONE
St. Louis has a police head who is fearless and fair. Recently his men raided a hotel and among others in the gambling outfit corralled was a member of the legislature. The politicians started out to "get" Miller. Gov. Hyde of Missouri refused to remove him. It quite frequently happens that a man occupying public position becomes obsessed with the idea that he should be immune from arrest and moves heaven and earth to keep it so.

LET US SING

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Lift up your voice in song! This advice is now widely distributed throughout the country by musical experts, and has gone so far that a bill has been introduced in congress to compel congressmen to sing. The time may come when a candidate for the senate will put forward as one of his qualifications that he is a basso profundo of the first order; when, at the conclusion of a debate on the farm credit bill, the agricultural bloc in the senate will rise and sing in chorus "The Old Oaken Bucket" or some other affecting rural ditty.

But congress is only a sample of the country at large. Its indifference to music, according to the experts, and the reason we are not musical people is that we listen too much and do not sing and play enough. The so-called music-lover who can make no music himself is a myth. If a man really loves music he will learn something about it, and if he learns something about it he will very likely come to appreciate it. But the thousands who attend concerts in a state of complete musical ignorance, while they may get something out of it, are not realizing the joys and benefits of music as much as the colored lady who sings a hymn to the rhythm of her genuflections before the washboard.

One of the foremost of these propagandists for personal participation in music is Robert Lawrence, who recently conducted a Musical Week in Washington and who plans to go all over the country preaching the gospel of homemade melody.

Americans like to sing, he says, and yet Americans like to sing. Mr. Lawrence experimented with this proposition and hit on a solution. The thing to do was to get them together and offer them good music free and give them a chance to sing too. He tried it and it worked. People who could not come out merely to indulge in an order of community singing came to hear the artists on the program. Others who were a trifle bored by some of the heavier numbers woke up and enjoyed themselves when the audience was taught to sing "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," with variations. And, through listening to good music and trying to make a little themselves, the tastes of the people broadened.

The psychology of it is interesting. A guitar will read anything about his favorite game. The things to do was to get them together and offer them good music free and give them a chance to sing too. He tried it and it worked. People who could not come out merely to indulge in an order of community singing came to hear the artists on the program. Others who were a trifle bored by some of the heavier numbers woke up and enjoyed themselves when the audience was taught to sing "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," with variations. And, through listening to good music and trying to make a little themselves, the tastes of the people broadened.

Mr. Lawrence concludes that people of this country really want to sing and are musical, in spite of the contrary impression.

"Music Week is a recent invention to arouse America to its musical possibilities. New York had the first Music Week last year, and since then a number of cities such as Dallas, Denver, Long Beach, Little Rock and Poughkeepsie have had similar celebrations.

"Music Week is a recent invention to arouse they can put music into their communities and give them a chance to try it out. Before Washington's affair, Mr. Lawrence trained almost 100 men and women as song leaders, and planned programs.

During Music Week itself there were musical events in all sections of the city at night and a few in the afternoon. One night there were 43 programs going on, all representing the best professional and amateur talent of the city. Colleges of music, bands, school children, clubs, churches and professional concert artists presented a wide variety of attractions.

After a Music Week is over, the city is expected to keep up some of its features as permanent institutions.

Mr. REED. Has the Senator concluded? Mr. GLASS. Yes.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I do not intend to be diverted from this question to discuss the making of the banking and currency bill. I made an assertion so plainly within the facts that I did not suppose any living human being would have the temerity to challenge that statement. I know that the Senator regards that bill as the child of his brain, and he is unwilling to admit anybody did anything to improve its condition, either before or after birth.

Mr. GLASS. The Senator does the Senator from Missouri yield to the Senator from Virginia? Mr. REED. I yield.

Mr. GLASS. The Senator does not know that, because it is not the fact.

Mr. REED. Well, Mr. President, if the Senator rises to make that sort of statement to me, he can not further interrupt me.

THE NEWSPAPER MAN

Bit of a priest and a bit of a sailor,
Bit of a doctor and bit of a tailor,
Bit of a lawyer, and bit of a detective,
Bit of a judge, for his work is correct;
Cheering the living and soothing the dying,
Risking all things, even dare-devil flying,
True to his paper and true to his claim—
Just look him over, the newspaper man.
Sleep! There are times that he'll do with a little.
Work till his nerves and his temper are brittle;
Fire cannot daunt him, nor long hours disturb him;
Highway or byway, your own speech he'll hand you;
He'll go wherever another man can,
That is the way of the newspaper man.
Surgeon, if urgent the need be, you'll find him;
Ready to help, nor will dizziness blind him;
He'll give the ether and never once falter;
Say the worst rites like a priest at the altar;
Gentle and kind with the weak and the weary,
Which is proved now and then when his keen eye grows teary;
Facing all things in life's curious plan,
That is the way of the newspaper man.
One night a week may he rest from his labor,
One night at home to be father and neighbor,
Just a few hours for his own bit of leisure,
All the rest he's gazing at other men's pleasure;
All the rest he's telling and yet he rejoices,
All the world is, and that men do, he knows;
Who knows a calling more glorious than this?
The day-by-day work of the newspaper man.

I believe that some writers who specialize in the sex problem don't know very much about either of the well-known sexes.

ROBERT P. SKINNER
Robert P. Skinner's recent visit to the White House is at the foundation of a report that he may succeed Brand Whitlock as American ambassador to Belgium; in which case, with his long and varied experience in foreign affairs. For seven months prior to the outbreak of the war he was consul general in London, and he was transferred to London where he performed his consular work. He served as honorary president of the American Red Cross in Great Britain, and as a member of the executive committee of the American Officers' Club and in many other activities. Skinner was owner and editor of the Evening Independent of his native city, Madison, Ohio, when he entered the public service as American consul at Marseilles. He was consul from 1897 until 1901 and consul general from 1901 until 1908, when he was assigned to Hamburg as consul general, resigning in 1914, until his transfer to Berlin in January, 1914.

In 1903 he served as commissioner to establish relations and to negotiate a treaty between the United States and Ethiopia. He had a special detail in 1912 to adjust the claims of Great Britain, France, Germany and the Netherlands. He was American member of the Nitrates executive in 1917, honorary member of the American Genealogical association and the American Society of International Law, and the American Society of Public Affairs. He is a Republican, and his home is in Massillon, which is also the birthplace of his wife, who was Miss Helen Wales.

State Press Comment

The legislature can't make up its mind to quit as a whole and go home but it is reported that individual members are threatening to go home and stay, anyway, and it enough of them get into this way of thinking the result may be the same.—Wausau Record-Herald.

If the new prohibition enforcement bill now before the legislature goes through it is very essential, that one of the things that has been made it be passed, and that is the one where no person under twenty-one can secure a prescription unless obtained by parents or guardians and upon affidavit of a physician that the minor is in need of such medicine for the relief of the minor. Such an amendment places a hardship on no one.—Antigo Journal.

HARD WATER AND SOFT ARTERIES

One of the popular myths is that drinking water, which is very hard, by reason of a high calcium or lime content, is a factor of premature hardening of the arteries.
An exceptionally hard drinking water contains as much as three or four grains of lime in a gallon. Few persons drink more than a gallon of water a day. Everybody who takes at least one square meal a day takes several times as much lime as a gallon of the hardest drinking water would contain, in the form of such lime-rich foods as milk, cheese, eggs, cabbage, turnips, prunes, oranges, beans, lentils, peaches, almonds, chocolate, carrots and other cereals, fruits and vegetables.
Even though it may be true that calcium or lime salts are deposited in the wall of the artery in the late or advanced stage of arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries, that should not be misapprehended. It is rather a secondary occurrence and not a primary one. If there is any fault in the calcium or lime intake of the ordinary civilized man it is rather a deficiency of lime in his food and drink.
In certain instances there may be some excess of lime in the diet. Drinking of hard water and using distilled water or other soft water instead, but only when the patient's physician deems it necessary. As a general rule, no matter how hard the water may be or how much lime it may contain, we need not worry about any fancied ill effects from drinking it freely.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
What would you recommend as a simple mouth wash for general toilet use in the home? (D. H.)
ANSWER.—A mixture of one ounce of lime water with fifteen ounces of normal or physiological solution of sodium chloride of common salt in the pint of boiled, preferably distilled or rain water.

"Can't stop to fool with her at present," the doctor said jerkily, as "Liphalet" reached the scene. "I'm due at Carey Payne's right now. His old car has got pneumonia sure's you're a foot high, Liphalet. I've been over to Suz Montevideo's, beyond The Benches. He's got a release of his inflammatory rheumatism. Can't lift his foot, and nobody to do for him."

"Some of those foot women that'll be playing the church by an' must better be doin' a neighborly turn for the Portagee," gumbled Liphalet.

"Sue's gone over," Doctor Ambrose said, jerking his neck back out from under the seat of the stalled car. "She ain't gone to old Montevideo's shack alone," demanded Liphalet. "The sale had blow state on the surfman's path along the sand cliffs, let alone a frail woman. Hal! I should think you'd have some sense."

"I haven't," responded the doctor coolly. "I reckon Sue can take care of herself, and she started on."

Liphalet retired to the kitchen and asked the fire.

"Thank the good Lord," he said. "I can stay blow 'stead of gettin' all in this weather. Bein' neighborly an' charitably at night, but charity begins at home. And by Hannibal! that's where Sue Ambrose ought to be this minute."

He jumped up suddenly at this thought. He could sit content with the thought of Miss Sue facing this alone along the sand cliff beyond the Point.

The surfman's beaten path on the edge of the high bank was often bitten out in savage mouthfuls by the wolfish breakers. They would be running high, Liphalet knew, with this surge. It was long walk to the old shack of Suz Montevideo in any weather. The surfman from the life saving station had no love for that path in an ugly blow like this, or a dark night in any case. The snow, too, was blinding.

Liphalet proceeded to tuck himself into a thick pilot coat, tucked his trousers into sack shoes, buckled the straps of his southwest under his jaw, and plunged into the settling gale.

There was not a soul on the road. The storm was blowing that he did not look to cut across logs and save steps. On the bare cliff, the full force of the wind-driven sleet struck him. He fairly had to crouch, turning a shoulder to the wind. Here the out-thrust of the land gave the storm a sweep across the brow of the cliff while the breakers, charging in from the open sea, buckled the sleet against the crumpling wall of sand and clay—an unstable barrier at best. It did not seem as though any woman could successfully face this, but Liphalet, the strongest man turn back.

There came a momentary lull. The sweeping snow parted like a curtain, and Liphalet saw the cliff, and for a space Liphalet could see for some distance along the path.

Dinner Stories

After studying the menu in a vain effort to find something to eat at a reasonable price, the restaurant patron turned to the waiter and said: "What's that on your chin?"

"A dimple, sir," the waiter replied. "Why do you ask?"

"Oh, everything's so high here I thought it might be your belt buckle."

"Well, I've at least reached the point where I think I shall be able to eat a little comfort out of life."

"That's good," Mastered the swing, have you?"

"Not at all. I've just brought myself, after five years of disappointment, to the conclusion that I am overjoyed to be among the charmed. From now on I shall try to enjoy breaking 100 now and then."

Johnny paid his first visit to a farm the other day. All his life he had lived in the heart of a great city, and when he suddenly came in sight of a haystack he stopped and gazed earnestly at what appeared to him as a new brand of architecture.

"Say, Mr. Smith, he remarked to the farmer, pointing to the haystack, 'why don't they have doors and windows in it?'"

"Doors and windows?" smiled the farmer. "That ain't a house, Johnny; that's hay."

"Don't try to jest me, Mr. Smith," was the scornful rejoinder. "Don't you suppose I know that hay don't grow in humps like that?"

"From the time I was branded I hated life on the plains. The cattle was poor, for owing to lack of rain, the short dry buffalo grass was expected to live up to short and deliver each day, until at last I could stand no more. I had to sell some of us for want of fodder to keep us. From that moment I watched my chance and kept close to the herd. The day after tomorrow I was to be shipped north for beef. I was tired of life and did not care even if I were killed at the end of the journey, for during the trip I could see strange sights and new places. Instead of lonesome plains stretching out in an unbroken, uninteresting, dead level."

"As I had hoped, I was one of the many selected for shipment. The day after tomorrow we were to be shipped north from where we were to be shipped. We were driven for hours through the blinding, choking dust, where nothing grew, but only peats and catt, and the only water to be had was the nauseous, brackish alkali, the drink which was certain death."

"I never lived through these five days is more than I can tell. The sixth day we entered a small town and were driven into a pen where we were to stand at last given plenty of water to drink, though we had to stand in the broiling sun, all cooped into a pen only large enough for 25, but into which 200 were driven."

"While in here I wished with all my heart that I was either a dog or a mule, and I had never before thought that I would live to see the day I could wish that, for a cow's beauty lies in the length and hooked and buttered round by 200 or more cows my sides were bloody and I was a mass of scratches from my neck to my heels. I decided that I would never again be branded, and I loved, scratch and rip one as their horned sides did."

"I thought my troubles were over when we reached the town, but then we were driven into cattle cars by men with long, stinging whips and poles with nails in the ends of them, with which they prodded us to enter the cars. For often when we were hurrying as fast as we could, they would give us a cut from their whips or a poke from their poles."

"That was not the worst thing that happened to us, however, for our long, sharp horns became tangled, or in the rush nearly put out our eyes. We were then packed into the cars so closely that we could not lie down, but had to stand head to tail like sardines in a box, for having some cows face one side of the car, and others the other side, there was less danger of our becoming tangled."

(Saturday the Cow from Texas finishes her story and Billy Whiskers tells his.)

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXXIII—OREGON

It was the Spanish who laid claim to the discovery of the Pacific coast. In 1542 Ponce de Leon sailed as far north as the Oregon boundary. In 1579 Sir Francis Drake explored for England the coast considerably north of this. Other Spaniards made further explorations, and Captain Cook, the English navigator, in 1778 landed at Nootka Sound and gave it its name. Thus both Spain and England laid claim to this region.

The American rights to this territory were based on the discovery of the Columbia river in 1792 by Captain Robert Gray, who sailed from Boston in the ship Columbia to open up fur trade. Many American fur traders followed, and in 1811 John Jacob Astor, the head of the Pacific Fur company, established a settlement called Astoria at the mouth of the Columbia.

The real opening of the Northwest was the result of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition.

By 1812 a flood of emigrants from the East traveled over the Oregon trail from Kansas City to the Columbia river and thence into Oregon. The trip over this route occupied about three months, and the settlers generally traveled in large parties to withstand any possible attacks from Indians.

American settlers became so numerous that the United States and Spain had to withdraw any rights she may have had when Florida was ceded in 1810. This left England and America quarreling over this section, and new places. Final settlement with definite boundaries between the United States and Canada, was made in 1846.

The Oregon territory was formed in 1848 and the state of Oregon was admitted into the Union in 1859, with an area of 96,699 square miles.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman and have been married seven years. My husband has been pretty mean to me. He has a very quick temper. We have been married for three months. He is in New York. I haven't heard a word from him since he left three months ago. He said before he left that he would never be back to me. He said I should get a divorce from him. I have been a true, loving wife, but he has done so many mean things to me that I have lost all happiness. I think I will be better off away from him.

I have two children and they are now living with my mother. My mother told me I should get a divorce and I have decided to wait until I have saved money enough and can get one.

Should I get a divorce? I am boarded with my aunt and I have to go to work.

BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE. Go to the probate court and state your case. It should not be necessary for the expense of your divorce to fall on you. Your husband ought to be found and made to pay the court costs. Yes, I think a lawyer would be better since you are not happy together and he is not true to you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a freshman at high school. I am bothered by a great deal with perspiration, especially on my face and around my neck. I heard that a bath every night would relieve it, but as I work until 3 o'clock every night, after school I have no chance to take one. A DAILY READER.

It would be bad for your health to try to check your perspiration. To bathe every night would be a better thing you could do. In spite of the fact that you work until 3 o'clock, 10 minutes spent in bathing either in the morning when you get up or at night before going to bed would do you a great deal of good and you would not miss the 10 minutes of sleep.

A person who perspires freely ought to bathe often in order to be free from the unpleasant odor which goes with perspiration.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years of age. I have a skin rash on my face. Please tell me what to do for it. IRENE.

Apply peroxide of hydrogen to the hair every night and morning. This will make it of light color and that it will be scarcely noticed and will have the tendency to deaden the roots. If the growth continues and you are disgraced from it have the hair removed by the electric needle.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow about a month. He does everything to make me happy and doesn't hesitate anything to say. Don't my dear that you wouldn't take my dear that you wouldn't take otherwise; telephones are for convenience only, not for flirtations.

"Vary Anxious"—It is not proper for you to go with a fellow who has been going with him steady for five months—or five years. Not until you have promised to marry him is he entitled to the privilege. After 12 o'clock is at least one hour, and probably more, too late for your boy friend to go home. I am surprised that your parents do not care for you sure, they know how late it is!

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" column in this paper. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. ## Too Much of a Good Thing will remove all bad odors which may remain, no matter how careful you clean out the refrigerator. The charcoal insures a sweet and fresh smelling interior.

"It is six years since I had my first stomach trouble. It rapidly grew worse. My food would not digest and I was reduced to skin and bone. My doctor put me on a starvation diet, and when my pains grew worse I concluded it was too much of a good thing. On the advice of my druggist I tried Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and am now entirely well." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the irritating mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Peoples Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

Bed Comforters—An easy way to make bed comforters is to pin all four corners of the lining to the carpet. Then lay on the batting and stretch the top on. Baste or pin all around to keep in place. Begin tacking and rolling as you tack, and you will have it done before you can place it in the frame. Or lay the material on the bed and tack about half the batting at a time.

Do Not Wring your wool blankets after washing them. They will keep their shape better if hung up very wet. The weight of the water straightens them out.

A Small Bag of Sulphur kept in a drawer or cupboard will drive away red ants.

To Make a Useful Kitchen Apron, make it the usual width or a little wider, and slit up one-third of the apron on the right side and hem all around. This third of the apron can be used to lift pots or skillets, as most women, while cooking, use their aprons.

To Make the Air delightfully fresh in a sick room, dip a sheet in a pail of water to which has been added a small amount of ammonia or lusterine. Wring out until almost dry; then hang in front of an open window where there is a gentle breeze.

After Changing Your Sliners place a good-sized lump of alum in the drawer with it. The alum reduces tarnishing. When One is Taking Out Basting threads or tipping it saves time if one has a dish of water in which to put the threads, thus keeping them from getting on the floor.

Goldenrod Eggs—Six hard boiled eggs, one and one-half cups milk, three tablespoons butter or substitute, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, few drops of Worcestershire sauce and six slices of toast. Boil the eggs and cut into long strips. Cut carrots into strips and turnips in dice. Cook each vegetable separately in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, season with salt, butter and arrange around a mound of mashed potatoes. Serve with white sauce.

Vegetable Plate Dinner—One quart string beans, four to six carrots, four to five small turnips, one quart spinach, three cups mashed potatoes, one pint white sauce.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Pineapple Salad—Lay round slice of pineapple in salt in powdered sugar. Peel thin slice of orange. Pour mayonnaise over this, and sprinkle ground nuts and grated cheese over top.

Tump Roast of Beef With Vegetables—Sear meat and put in pan. Remove from cooker and place in roaster with potatoes in one end of roaster and halved head of cabbage in the other. Season, put in hot oven and serve as soon as done.

Little Cakes—One-half cup white sugar, one-half cup brown, one cup shortening, two tablespoons corn meal, two cups flour, one-half cup nut-meats. Mix and bake in small cakes in hot oven.

CANDY RECIPES

Nut Balls—One cup raisins, one cup dates, one cup pecans. Run through the meat-chopper, moisten with orange juice until it will roll in balls, dip in powdered sugar and serve as a confection.

Lemon Gum Drops—Three and one-half tablespoons gelatin, three-quarters cup cold water, one-quarter cup granulated sugar, two teaspoons hot water, four tablespoons corn syrup, two tablespoons lemon juice or less. Soak the gelatin in the cold water until water is absorbed. Mix sugar, hot water and corn syrup in a saucepan and boil syrup without stirring to the soft-ball stage. Remove from the fire and add the gelatin. Return to the fire and stir a minute over the fire. Add lemon juice (strained) and put in a cool place for five or six minutes. Pour into cornstarch molds marked by the impression of a rounded knife handle or a thimble. When firm, put into sieve and shake off cornstarch. Use a brush if necessary. Hold sieve over steam for a second to crystallize the drops and then roll in granulated sugar.

COOKING HINTS

Save the Rinds of Bacon and salt pork. When cooked with any kind of greens, or in soups or beans, these rinds will give added flavor and richness to the dish.

Letting Your Cake Batter, especially if it contains much baking powder, stand long will spoil it. Let your oven be heating while you are mixing the dough.

Cake Tastes Better when frosted warm, and when you are not using boiled frosting dredge the cake lightly with flour, wipe carefully, and the frosting will not run as you spread it on.

SUGGESTIONS

Guest Book—If every young housewife will provide herself with a large book for her desk and ask visitors and friends or the passing guest to write their names down in her "guest book" it will make very interesting reading in the years to come.

Part Orders—By placing a small piece of cardboard in a plate inside and on the bottom of the refrigerator, it

Plenty of Coal Now

Mister Home-man let's talk a bit. Last winter it was a fight to get coal—and prices were forced out of sight.

Right now the mines are begging for orders at fair prices; cars are available; our teams and trucks are ready to serve you.

We admit freight rates are high and have not come down. We want them to come down as much as you do. But can you afford to take a chance on a repetition of last winter's trouble in order to save a possible dollar on hard coal and 50c on soft coal?

This is no bluff. We can serve you now—and glad to do it. Later in the year it will be a grave question whether or not anyone can get you coal when and how you want it.

Better play safe. Put in half your tonnage anyway. ORDER TODAY.

YOUNG RUSSIANS REDS, SAYS YANK

Schools All Teach Communism,
"Revolutionary Conscience," is Assertion.

Riga—Most of the younger generation of Russians are Bolsheviks, says Captain Merion C. Cooper, of Jacksonville, Fla. American diver who was captured by Russians while serving in the Polish army and recently escaped from a Moscow prison.

He attributes this condition to the Bolshevik educational system, under which communism is taught in the schools.

"The schools are all red," he said. "and the educational program prescribes that the first thing to be developed in the mind of the child is the 'revolutionary conscience.' In prison I saw several times children whose parents, the latter being anti-Bolshevik. The children were 'reds' and accepted their parents' imprisonment philosophically, wondering how they could get against the teachers they had been taught to absorb in the classroom."

Living with this system of educating the children, said Captain Cooper, is the wonderful propaganda system by which the Bolsheviks attempted to convert the adults.

"Their communist lectures work even in the prisons," he continued. "They even tried it on me. There were lectures or classes held very frequently. If a man said he was converted and could convince the prison committee of that fact, he generally was released."

"Further in the line of skilled propaganda was the excellent treatment of the Polish war prisoners just before the repatriation agreement of the Polish-Russian peace treaty. Before each bunch was repatriated all of the soldiers in it were given new clothes and new shoes, being well fed for several weeks, so that when they arrived in Poland they looked well fed, well dressed and in short, were walking advertisements for the Soviet government."

Generally, Captain Cooper said, conditions in the prisons were from the standpoint of diet, but he said he received no personal ill-treatment.

UNIQUE POEM ON THE SURRENDER OF GEN. BURGOWNE

When Harold Glesse was looking over some papers before leaving Janesville for his new home in Chicago, he found among those of an ancestor a most unique historical document. It is a report of the surrender of Burgoyne, evidently made by a member of the quartermaster's department of the Continental army and given to Gen. Stark. In Glesse's version it tells of the number of men captured, the guns, and the number of the dead and wounded.

This poem was found among the papers of Gen. John Stark, who spent at Bennington so upset the calculation of Burgoyne and Gen. Baum the Hessian hired to lay waste the Vermont country. This is the poem: "GENERAL'S OVER-THROW AT SARATOGA."

37th of October, 1777.
(Found among papers of General Stark.)
Here followeth the dreadful fate,
Of Burgoyne and his army great.
He so proudly stood in the day,
The terrors of despotism away.
His power and pride and many threats,
Have been brought low by fortune's gates.
To bend to the United States.

British prisoners by convention—2442
Fugitives by convention—2198
Tories sent across the lake—170
Burgoyne and suite in state—12.

Sick and wounded, bruised and pounded,
Not so much before confounded—528.
Prisoners of war before convention—260.

They lost at Bennington's great battle,
Where glorious Stark's arms did rally—1250.
Killed in September and October—680
Taken by Brown's some drunk some slain
By high-famed Harkimer—113.

On both flanks, on rear and van—320.
Indian, scouters and drovers,
Enough to crown large plains all over.
And those whom grim death did protect,
From fitting 'gainst our continent.
And those who stole away,
Left down their arms they should lay,
Abhorring that obnoxious day—1413.

The whole making fourteen thousand men
Who may not fight with us again—14,000.

This is a pretty just account
Of Burgoyne's legion's whole amount
Who came across the northern lakes.
To desolate our happy states.

Their brass cannon we have got all,
Five and six, both great and small.
And the thousand stand of arms,
To prevent all further harms.
Scores and implements complete
Of workmanship exceeding neat.
Covered wagons in great plenty,
And proper harness, no way scanty.

Among our prisoners there are
Six generals of fame most rare:
Six members of the parliament—
Reluctantly they seem content:
Three British Lords and Lord Balcarras.

Who came our country to harass,
Two baronets of high extraction
Were wounded in the action.

Foot Note:

Baritone Before War, Chicago Singer Emerges from Hospital With Excellent Tenor Voice

Chicago—When Clay Hart, a Chicago baritone, emerged from a five months' siege in an army hospital in France he found his voice gone and the prospect of never being able to sing again staring him in the face. That was in June, 1918. Today Mr. Hart is a promising tenor on the faculty of one of the city's leading conservatories and an operatic company which he has recently founded has already had several successful engagements.

The rehabilitation of the artilleryman-singer was accomplished through a course given Hart by the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Although an accomplished musician before he entered the army, Hart found it necessary to begin at the bottom and learn to trill and run the scales all over again.

Prior to entering the service, Hart was a member of the Paulist Choir of Chicago and accompanied the choir as a soloist in a transcontinental tour just before he enlisted. Then he went overseas with the 15th Field artillery, 1st division, as a buck private and saw a year's service in France.

Much of the time on the firing line. In the fall of 1918 he contracted influenza, which later developed into pleurisy and pneumonia, and in January, 1919, he went to a hospital, where he was finally operated on for emphysema. At that time it was thought that his singing voice would entirely disappear and that his career as a singer was over.

Tell of Work in Govt. Hospitals

New York—Conditions in the government hospitals for the care of tuberculous soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses were both commended and criticized in Friday's session of the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association here. The comments, both favorable and otherwise, were made in a report presented by two of the five physicians selected by the surgeon-general of the United States Public Health service to visit and inspect the hospitals for tuberculous service men.

It is drawn up by Dr. George T. Palmer, of Springfield, Ill., and Dr. Henry W. Hoagland, of La Jolla, Cal. The physicians reported that they were surprised to find that the institutions were so efficiently conducted in the face of difficulties and obstacles that had to be overcome. They commended the attitude of the surgeon-general in seeking to improve the service and readiness to act upon constructive criticism. The chief criticisms made by the physicians were:

Shortage of specially trained nurses and the lowering of the morale through the social relationship of nurses and other female employees with patients.

Lack of discipline indicated in the prevalence of gambling, the use of tobacco, the abuse of caves and furcoughs and the participation of patients in harmful diversions and amusements.

The assignment of the more competent members of the medical staff to wards for terminal and advanced patients, with less efficient medical service in the wards occupied by the doubtful cases and by patients awaiting discharge.

ERRORS PLUS HITS COST SIX RUNS IN 7TH; SCORE, 10-5

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Decatur, Ill.—With the game apparently belonging to Janesville who was holding a one run lead, the Staleys sailed into the seventh frame Thursday to win, 10 to 5. Ten men faced the southpaw twirler in that inning and six of them managed to score.

While a base on balls and three hits started the Staley rally, four errors by the Tractors had a great deal to do with the finish. Two errors by Holland, one by "Daddy" Perring and one by Brockaw did the work.

Had Early Lead
Heavy hitting gave the Janesville crew their run in the early innings. Perry, Perring's hired hands got a hit except Smithson and Breckenridge. Croak, Lathrop and Perring got two each while Big Bill Holland and got two baggers.

Breckenridge is still out of the game with an injured knee. His place is being taken by Lathrop at Mowcove. Friday, the Tractors expect to pitch. On Saturday and Sunday they return to Decatur to play another two games with the Staleys.

After having handed defeats to real estate men and church teams, the Bankers of Janesville bowed before the Gazette hurlings at the fair grounds Thursday afternoon. The Gazette crew, took it easy in depositing his deliveries in the way of the "financiers" bats. While he allowed them five hits, only three went out of the park.

Not having played together before this season, the Gazette boys pulled a surprise upon the Bankers, who were lacking a couple of their best players including Pitcher "Bob" Conway. "Connie" suffered a broken bone in his right hand in a game with the "Congs" last week. Gus and Paul Schmidt, the press-room brothers, fell back quickly into their old-time form flashing on hit grounders and perfect pegs, but short on wind (saw the hit of a newspaper man if you want to).

Four Runs, Three Hits
All the hitting the Gazette got was three biggies but they took advantage of three bases on balls and four errors. Twice the score was tied by the money-men only to be broken by the ink and paper hounds in the next act.

THE TITLE SCRAP?

Can the pale, wiry Carpenter, with those "beautiful" legs stand the strain of a battle with the heavyset, steam-hammer punching Dempsey? Will magnificent legs or superior arms win the crown of heavyweight championship of the world?

There are questions that are uppermost in the minds of sporting writers and the $50 a head public. Who knows? The man who watches the men and then takes a brodie of a guess? Dr. William Brady, famous physician, knows. He is going to tell you. All you will have to do is to start buying the Gazette for six days straight beginning June 22.

The answer of "Doc" will surprise you. You'll tell your partner, friend, wife, everybody you meet about it.
There is going to be a rush for these articles. So to be positive that you will get yours, better get your order in now. Six articles in all based upon scientific inspection of both men.
In addition the Gazette will have a full bulletin service on the day of the fight followed with a complete account as soon as the final blow is struck. Don't miss the Gazette June 22 and six days thereafter.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Making Efforts to Get Fairies for Booster Game

First steps in a roasting campaign to put on a big booster day for the Janesville Tractors were taken at a meeting of the board of directors of the Tractor City Athletic association with Lucian O. Holman, manager of the Chamber Thursday afternoon. A list of workers was chosen which will be split up into teams of two each to sell tickets for the big attraction in advance.

Greater efforts than ever will be made to arrange a game with the Detroit Fairies. A committee of prominent Janesville citizens will join hands with one from Detroit to call upon the officials of the Fairbanks-Morse company to get the matter cleaned up and bring the Gateway city outfit here on that afternoon. This will be done just as soon as an appointment can be made with the Detroit club.

Or All-State Team
In the event that the club cannot be procured, the plan will be to form a team of stars from nine of the fastest clubs in the state to play the Tractors. This should be a big drawing card, but not so large as the Fairies.

June 22 will be Homecoming Day for the Wisconsin Society of Chicago which will come here 200 strong to spend their annual outing. Among these people are J. O'Brien Armour and many others equally as prominent. They will be free guests of the ball club at the park that afternoon. The presence here of so many nationally known figures at one time should prove an extra drawing card.

All Stores Close
The stores of Janesville will close on the afternoon of June 23 in tribute to the Wisconsin natives returning to their home state for a good time.
Efforts are continuing to be made through the Wisconsin society office to bring Judge Landis, supreme high mogul of baseball, out with them on that afternoon to attend the Booster Game.

The local ticket committee is composed of:
William O'Connell, Roddy Wright, John E. Kennedy, George Pettit, John P. Hagen, George Senneker, Dr. W. J. Clark, Dr. L. J. Woodworth, Dr. Drummond, Ralph J. Kamps, Harold Schwartz, Roger G. Cunningham, George Yahn Jr., Sydney Postwick, Elbridge Field, James Walsh, A. J. Huebel, Edward Winer, Otto Panke, Joseph Denning, Del Harder, Edward Amerpohl, Charles S. Toulon.

Harley-Davidson Booked
With Moose on Sunday
Newest in the ranks of local baseball clubs, the Harley-Davidsons are booked with the Moose at the fair grounds for 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The Harley are looking for games with local or out of town teams.

"Didn't I hear you, George, say something the other day, about 500 tests being made before the Adlon blend was adopted?"

"Very likely! Why?"

"Some claim, isn't it, George?"

"Fact, nevertheless! I've made it a point to know the history of Adlon. It's my personal choice in cigars; the only brand I ever smoke."

"But, tell me, George? Are so many tests necessary to produce a cigar?"

"That depends! You'd say so—if you were in the business and your ideal was to make a cigar of finer

18 Extra Frames in Major Games

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Thursday was a day of thrills for the older league fans. Three extra inning games were played, making 18 extra innings in all for the day.

With the old feud between the Giants and the Cubs revived, Chicago had the great delight of taking the New Yorkers into camp, 5 to 4. But the Pirates won the longest game of the season when they beat the Dodgers of Brooklyn, 6 to 4, in 17 innings. A double to right by Maravillo did the winning.

After the game had gone 15 innings, Nicholson's hero homer with one on won 5 to 4 for Boston. Moke and Schultz also made four batters.

Lacing four Philadelphia twirlers for 13 hits, Cincinnati won 9 to 7.

When Wilkinson blew up in the seventh, the Yankees crept ahead of the White Sox to win 7 to 3. Eddie Collins was forced out of the lineup with an injured finger.

Featured by homers by Smith and J. Walker, Cleveland nosed out Philadelphia for the second time in two days, 3 to 1.

Outslogging Detroit, the Braves took the Tigers number at 8 to 3. Middleton was knocked out of the snail. Although both teams got six hits a piece, Washington bunched hers and defeated St. Louis, 6 to 2.

Save for two errors by Goarin, Barnes would have given the Senators a shutout. As it was he allowed only five scattered hits and the Brewers defeated Columbus, 7 to 2.

Hitting Robin and over the lot, Indianapolis took the scalp of Minneapolis, 8 to 3.

Kansas City took its initial whitewashing of the year. Toledo handed it to the White Sox to win 9 to 0. Melinde took three out of four, Louisville took the last of the series from St. Paul, 5 to 4. The game went 12 innings.

"Yes, sir; as a tobacco expert and practical cigar-maker, I can appreciate what was done by the makers of Adlon.

"It didn't just happen! The research and experimentation of years are represented in the Adlon cigar as it comes over the counter to you today.

"You know, Havana tobacco may be one thing or another. But the Adlon filler blend of Havana is a thing apart—the most distinctive and successful blend I know anything about.

"Plus the rich yet mild Havana-blend filler of the Adlon, is a Sumatra wrapper of special culture and cure—making a perfect combination.

"And Adlon doesn't stop with the right combination of tobaccos. In the Adlon process, the 'gums', present in all tobaccos, are so treated that they cannot impair the enjoyment of the smoker."

Champs Gather for Tryouts in U. S. "Olympics"

Chicago—Leading athletes from dozens of colleges and universities in every section of the country Friday gathered at Stagg field for elimination tryouts in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field meet, the first even of its kind with so large a national representation ever held in the United States with the exception of the Olympic Games.

With 237 athletes entered, tryouts in every event were arranged for late Friday. Every event drew from 15 to more than 40 contestants, 41 men being entered in the 100 yard dash.

The American Olympics
Although most schools sent only one or two men, only world, national or conference champions being selected, there are several schools with a sufficient number of high caliber entries to give them a strong chance for team honors.

Washington state, the University of Washington, Illinois, Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Michigan, Amherst, and the University of the South are some of them.

The meet is the first held by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and it is planned to make it an annual event, limiting the entries to champions and thus making it the American Olympics.

HOT RIVALRY FRIDAY
IN BAKER-CLUB GAME
Ecated rivalry such as has not been seen among two local amateur baseball teams have in some time been bound to make the game between the Baker-Rites and the Club Billards at the fair grounds at 5:30 Friday evening one of the best so far in this year's city baseball league.

These teams are now tied for second place in the wheel.

On Sunday, the Knights of Columbus and the Eagles are booked to appear at the lot up the hill at 3:30 a. m. Here's another flashy game that is due.

McGowan Skating Champ,
Enters Ring on Friday
Minneapolis, Minn.—Eddie McGowan, middleweight, will meet in a 10-round no-decision boxing bout tonight. In one of the preliminaries Everett McGowan, former amateur skating champion of America, will make his debut as a professional boxer, taking on Barney Dugan of Minneapolis for six rounds.

TAKES MEDAL PLAY HANDICAP WITH 40, BEATS CHI CHAMP

Playing the nine hole course of the Blue Mound country club of Milwaukee in 44, which was reduced to a net of 40 by a handicap of 4, Mrs. A. J. Harris of this city carried off the honors in a one day tourney held under the auspices of the Women's Western Golf association. Mrs. Harris annexed the medal play handicap event.

Mrs. Harris squeezed out the Klotz sisters of Chicago who tied at 41. Miss Elizabeth Klotz is the champion woman golfer of the Windy City.

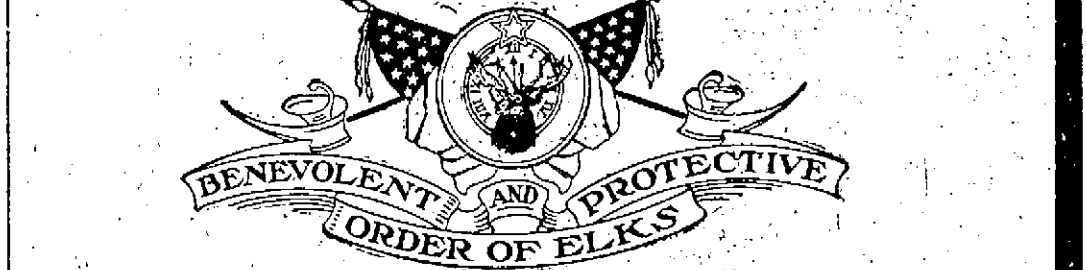

Eighty Compete.
About 80 players took part in the tourney representing many of the leading clubs in Wisconsin and Chicago. Many of the officers of the Western association were present. Miss E. Klotz won the gross score with 42, her handicap being 1.

Mrs. E. R. Whitcomb, Milwaukee, five times Wisconsin woman champion, played with Miss Frances Hadfield, present champion, in the two-some and got second place. First went to the Klotz sisters, 88-9-96.

NEVER IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS FOR US

Ambassador Harvey in Supreme Council is Quite a Different Thing.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington.—The United States government has no intention of sending a representative, even unofficially, to discuss with the council of the league of nations the matter of mandates.

This may be unpleasant news to those who have had a vision of hope that the mandate question would serve as a bridge over which the two rival administrations could eventually reach the council of the league without the embarrassment, but it is nevertheless the truth.

The invitation sent by the council of the league to Secretary Colby to send a representative to discuss mandates was purposely left unanswered so that the Harding administration might be free to do as it pleased with the request. Paris dispatches in the last few days have sought information to learn the American government that the invitation is still unanswered.

In the same informal way the word goes out that the Harding administration does not anticipate the necessity of sending any representatives, official or unofficial, to the next meeting of the council.

As to mandates as concerned, the United States has a means of communication with all the powers through the supreme council, which is attended by Ambassador Harvey as the personal representative of the president of the United States. Although the American ambassador has made one or two errors of speech which he himself attributes to the fact that he is a diplomat, although Secretary Hughes and President Harding have both felt it necessary to decline America's purposes in entering the league, the fact is that the United States is still in good favor and is charged with the responsibility of negotiating all the delicate questions which America may want to discuss with the great powers.

Nothing to Do With League.
Ambassador Harvey made the statement that the United States will not be doing anything to do with the league or any of its committees, directly or indirectly. This was doubted at the time, but it turns out that he had an accurate idea of Harding administration policy. Even the Root plan for an international court of justice, which is the offspring of a committee of the league of nations, is not to be accepted unless it is completely separated from the machinery of the league.

The determination to steer clear of the league of nations and deal only with the supreme council is growing stronger in administration quarters, especially because the president is becoming convinced that there is no real basis for a league of nations, and that the parallel organization of the league of nations, namely, the council.

The Supreme Council.
After the next few meetings of the supreme council it would not be surprising to find President Harding openly commending that body as an effective medium for international intercourse and urging its use as a nucleus for a stronger association of nations which shall differ from the present league of nations in that it shall have nothing to do with the enforcement of the treaty of Versailles or any other treaty.

Already Mr. Harding is using the supreme council to get at the attitude of the powers on the disarmament question, and just as soon as the Versailles treaty can be retracted, so as to eliminate certain clauses in which the United States is not interested, the move for an association of nations will be begun. One thing has developed clearly in the last few days—it is that the Harding administration does not intend to rush precipitately into treaty making or anything else, but will take one step at a time.

First Stage of Journey.
The passage of the Knox-Porter resolution deciding the state of war at an end is the first stage of the journey. Next comes the revision or modification of the Versailles treaty, so that the American senate can ratify it, and thus peace with Germany, made and diplomatic relations established. After that comes the making of an association of nations.

Canada Weighs Naming of Ambassador to U.S.; Seeks Suitable Candidate

Toronto.—For going on two years the government of Canada has had an appropriation available for an ambassador at Washington, but it has made no appointment. Rumors have stated that there has been opposition to the project from England, but this the Canadian ministers deny. The only reason the appointment has not been made, they say, is that they have been unable to find a suitable candidate for the position.

Two Outstanding Names.
The two outstanding names which have been spoken of in connection with Canada's first ambassadorship are those of Sir Robert Borden, former premier, and N. W. Rowell, former president of the privy council, who retired together from the cabinet when the government was reorganized under Meighen. Both retain their seats in the commons as supporters of the government, and both have ability, a thorough grasp of foreign affairs, and a diplomatic turn of mind. It has been definitely stated, however, that at present neither will accept the post, Sir Robert possibly because he feels the need of complete rest after almost a decade in the premiership, and Rowell possibly because he wishes to devote attention to his profession. Perhaps, later on, circumstances or a renewed sense of public duty will cause one of the other to change his mind.

Other names that have been discussed in connection with the position are those of Sir Charles Gordon, of Montreal and Lloyd Harris of Bradford. These men are in available service in connection with Canadian trade missions during the war, and although their field has been business rather than diplomacy, the appointment of either would be regarded favorably.

Need for Ambassador.
Those who are urging the creation of a Canadian embassy in Washington deny that it will tend toward separation of Canada from Britain or that it expresses dissatisfaction even in remote form with Canada's imperial ties. "We are going to appoint an ambassador at Washington because we feel the need of him, is the practical way the premier himself expresses it, just as when we feel the need in the past of negotiating our own commercial treaties we secured the right to do so."

Further, most of the work of the British embassy in Washington has had to do with Canadian affairs. Lord Bryce in his day estimated the Canadian portion as between two-thirds and three-fourths of the total. Don't Concur Empire.
Among the subjects recently dealt with have been the following: The Chicago drainage canal. Supplies of coal for Canada. Levels of the Lake of the Woods. The United States merchant marine act.

Levels of Lake Memphremagog. Exportation of pulpwood from Canada. Interchange between American and Canadian railways, especially between the Canadian National railway system and the United States railways. Panama canal tolls. Fishing questions on both seaboard and the Great Lakes.

It is obvious that with a Canadian embassy reporting direct to Ottawa instead of to London these purely Canadian affairs could be expeditiously dealt with, and in most cases without affecting any one else in the world.

In addition, there is arising a new group of foreign issues in which other countries besides Canada and the United States are involved, but in which Canada has a primary and a distinct interest. An example is the

Two leading candidates for the post of Canadian ambassador to the U. S., Sir Robert Borden, above, and N. W. Rowell.

Pacific problem and all the issues arising out of it. In this all of the British empire is interested, but Canada, at least so far as the North Pacific is concerned, is much more vitally interested than any other portion of the empire.

Position of Objectors.
Despite the strong case for the immediate appointment of an ambassador at Washington, made out by Borden, Rowell and others of the more forward-looking statesmen, there has developed a surprising amount of opposition, cutting across all party lines. The chief objection is to the suggestion that Canada's ambassador should act in the place of the British ambassador during the latter's absence. They seem to fear that in such an event Canada may become involved in some world or imperial responsibility not at present contemplated, and that the situation could be used as an argument by the imperial federalists, showing the necessity of a central government for the empire.

NO CRIME WAVE SAYS EX-WARDEN

Amateurs Give False Impression and Old Criminals are Quitting.

Jefferson City, Mo.—"A crime wave in the country? There is no such thing. If by the term crime wave is meant more crime."

George W. Kirchwey, formerly warden of Sing Sing prison, believes there has been no crime wave in the country. Mr. Kirchwey came here to make a survey of the Missouri penitentiary, which, by the way, is much better than the famous New York penitentiary. Mr. Kirchwey, a Columbia university professor and a nationally known authority on penology and criminology, will be assisted in the prison survey here by Thomas Mott Osborne, also formerly a Sing Sing warden. It is understood that Hyde is seeking to have Mr. Osborne come here to take charge of the Missouri penitentiary, following the reorganization of the prison board.

Mr. Kirchwey will be here about one week, he said. He expects to spend one day at the boys' reform school at Booneville. The last few months Mr. Kirchwey has investigated the prisons of the east and middle west.

Fewer Crimes of Violence.
To refute the common belief that there is a crime wave, he points to the fact there are fewer prisoners at Missouri penitentiary now than there were in 1917 and 1918.

The so-called crime wave in the country began last fall, according to Mr. Kirchwey. Yet in the time since then there have been fewer crimes of violence than before, he said.

"The idea that there is a crime wave comes from the numerous sensational crimes that get into the front pages of the newspapers," he explained. "Of that kind of crime there has been much more than before."

"These sensational crimes are being committed largely by amateurs. They are the kind that make good newspaper stories, but show they are poorly planned and bear the earmarks of the amateur."

"There is today in the country what you are going to see, call a large number of emotional criminals, the aftermath of the war, whose crimes are widely herded."

For the criminals today the old-time have a civilized horror and the utmost contempt. The old, expert criminals are getting out of the business.

A short time ago I met several ex-convicts from Sing Sing. They were talking of the new school of criminals now growing up.

Have Influenced "The Game"
"These fellows today don't give a man a chance for his life," one of these ex-convicts said. "They don't show any sporting blood. The game has been ruined by the amateurs."

Mr. Kirchwey after visiting the penitentiary here said there had been a wonderful improvement in the Missouri prison the last few years. Mr. Kirchwey had heard of the old Missouri penitentiary methods from the convicts at Sing Sing. The penitentiary here was known among the criminals throughout the country as the "hell hole."

Many Should Be in Hospitals.
Mr. Kirchwey discussed the cause of criminality, much of it resulting now from lack of employment. He talked of the low mentality of the criminal class in general, attributing a large part of it to mental deficiency. Of one class at the Missouri penitentiary, which has a low rating for behavior, Mr. Kirchwey said:

"I believe that an investigation of the men in that class would result in finding most of them belong in a hospital for the insane, rather than in a prison."

England Gives Up Cigars

The Havana cigar trade in England has been almost past praying for. The chancellor of the exchequer signed its death warrant when he put on an ad valorem duty of 30 per cent in addition to the previous toll of nearly $4 a pound (15 shillings and 7 pence to be exact.) With that tremendous tax he hoped to raise about 5 million dollars last year. Actually he got only about one-fifth of that. The cigar smoker wouldn't stand it. He simply stopped cigar smoking.

There is no doubt the heavy tax on cigars has led many men to give up the habit. The Englishman, never so fond of a cigar as the American, has consoled himself with the old and democratic favorite, the "rag" (British for cigarette) and the pipe, which have an extraordinary vogue. The fact that the prince of Wales has taken to a pipe is a sign of the times. His grandfather, King Edward, was unfailingly faithful to the more aristocratic cigar.

It is an unusual sight today to see a man smoking a cigar in England. To do so is to proclaim himself rich almost beyond the dreams of avarice, or a profiteer which amounts to the same thing.

Faith and Education.

It is the only school in the United States. It is the only school that undertakes to give a man social education, scientific instruction and vocational training. It is the only college where a headlong college in one. It is the only great public school in the world that pays and "keeps" a hundred thousand men while it educates them.

It is such a new thing in America that it may be that while the public is talking about doing away with the two, it is not yet ready to do so. To reduce it, both are thinking about something that no longer exists. Certain it is that to men in the United States, the word "education" has a different meaning from what it had as late as 1916. The army today is an indispensable part of the education of the American people. The programs—and there be competent observers—who say that it is educating better than the public schools and maintaining better than the social settlements.

I couldn't send the Hungarian Bolsheviks a grain of wheat nor an ounce of fat until it was paid for in cold cash," said a Russian. "I don't want no local wall paper—real money!"

The Bolsheviks almost shivered. "How much do you want?"

"First ants will be the kind of money have you and where is it?"

"You can have your choice," they said. "The Bolsheviks have taken charge of the banks in Hungary, and we have a million marks—over a million marks, pounds—we have even American dollars."

About three o'clock the next afternoon two men, accompanied by a persimmon-colored American, came in, carrying a clothes basket covered with a cloth. For two hours my assistants choiced British pounds, Turkish piasters, French francs, Italian lire, sayings, medals, buttons and crowns, the whole topped with $90.00 in crisp one thousand dollar bills of the vintage of Uncle Sam. That night they rested in the Hotel de Ville, waiting for the Vienna Bank Verein. A trade had been closed with the packers' agent and three train loads of fats ordered to be made ready for immediate shipment. I stepped on receipt of a wire from Mr.
